

THE HARLEY SCHOOL

REPORT ON GIVING

2021 to 2022

The Harley School

Dear friends,

As my 19-year run at Harley draws to a close, I have so much to reflect on and be thankful for. There have been broad-stroke changes during my time here, and much to make all of us proud. In these past two decades, The Harley School has thrived! We're a school of over 500 students, we built or rebuilt much of the School, we innovated inside and outside of classrooms, and gained national attention for our sustainability programming. We are the most diverse we have ever been. We created a $5.3M endowment, in order to better support the faculty. Most importantly, we continue to serve our students as fully, thoughtfully, and personally as we ever have.

As proud as I am (and we should all be) of these accomplishments, I realize it's my role as a Harley dad that rises to the top when I think about my long-term relationship with the School. As I've chronicled over the years, our three children—Lily '12, Amos '15, and Josh '15—graduated from Harley and had life-shaping experiences here. They went to colleges that were terrific matches for each of them, where they sat up front asking any and all questions, made themselves known during office hours, raised their voices in class discussions, and tried everything under the sun—everything Harley grads are known for.

What's next for Harley? Those details may be for future leaders to determine, but the spirit and underlying philosophy of the School remain steady. Twenty years ago, when I was first reading about Harley as a candidate for Head of Upper School, I learned about the then-new Hospice program and told my wife, Robin, "Any school that will do that is probably a place we could all be happy." The boldness Harley showed by saying "yes" to having a Hospice program—something most other schools would frankly not do—is part of that spirit or ethos, as is the supportive and loving environment for students, the intellectual seriousness and good humor of the faculty, and the thoughtful engagement of parents and alums.

The accomplishments of The Harley School are due to all of these factors, and to the support of people like you. Thank you for your care and support—it's what makes Harley possible. Aside from a loving home, there is no greater gift for a child than a great education. Thank you for making this possible.
